Karl A. Malone

I salute each of you, and I am honored to have been asked to share in your "Operation On Target" experience. I have never climbed the mountains that you have climbed today, but everyone climbs "mountains" daily --- some of mine are on the basketball court and some are just part of day to day living. Some "mountains" are big and must be climbed carefully, other "mountains" are small and can be climbed easily.

I wish for you "small mountains" in your lives, but when you are faced with the big ones, I wish you the knowledge to know how to climb them. I always wanted to be a Scout, but I never was --- so thanks for asking me to share in your scouting experience. Stay healthy --- mentally and physically, drug free.

Sincerely,
